we have 4 million people why is digital better???

tv great sky tv is digital great radio??? why bother to be honest it would be a pain in the butt to go digital too many stations there are markets that are over crowded why have more?? people are digital in every sense they have mp3 players they listen to what they want they have cd which is great quality, why do we need digital in geek speak its like saying i have a 4.3 motor in my car it goes well but thats not good enough now i want a 7 litre engine?? we are not in the stone ages with what we have so why does it matter it just looks good on paper.

I would rather be outside on my bike or driving my car or doing the garden than playing with digital stuff to communicate and listen and watch information lifes too short.
